This two day onsite EnRoute training provides a hands on learning experience tailored to your team's specific applications, workflows, and production goals. Led by Chris Kennedy, the training is conducted at your facility using your equipment and projects, allowing participants to gain practical experience in a real world production environment.

During the session, Chris will cover core EnRoute functionality, efficient design and toolpath creation, machine setup considerations, and workflow best practices. Training topics can be customized to match your team's experience level and operational needs, whether focused on routing, sign making, cabinetry, nested based manufacturing, or other CNC applications.

By the end of the two day training, participants will have a stronger understanding of EnRoute, increased confidence in creating and managing projects, and improved efficiency in moving from design to production. The interactive format encourages questions, troubleshooting, and direct application of concepts to your day to day workflows.

This onsite training is ideal for new users seeking a solid foundation, as well as experienced operators looking to refine techniques and maximize productivity with EnRoute.
